SEVENTIETH ANNIVERSARY VOLUME

Placement Bureau

FOREWORD

Years pass, but the hands that shaped our policies seven decades ago are still in the creative process of continuing our rich heritage, one which has taught us the meaning of adjustment to a changing society.

"And I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year: "Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown." And he replied: 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than a known way.' "

King George VI in a Christmas

To Miss Wren Staley

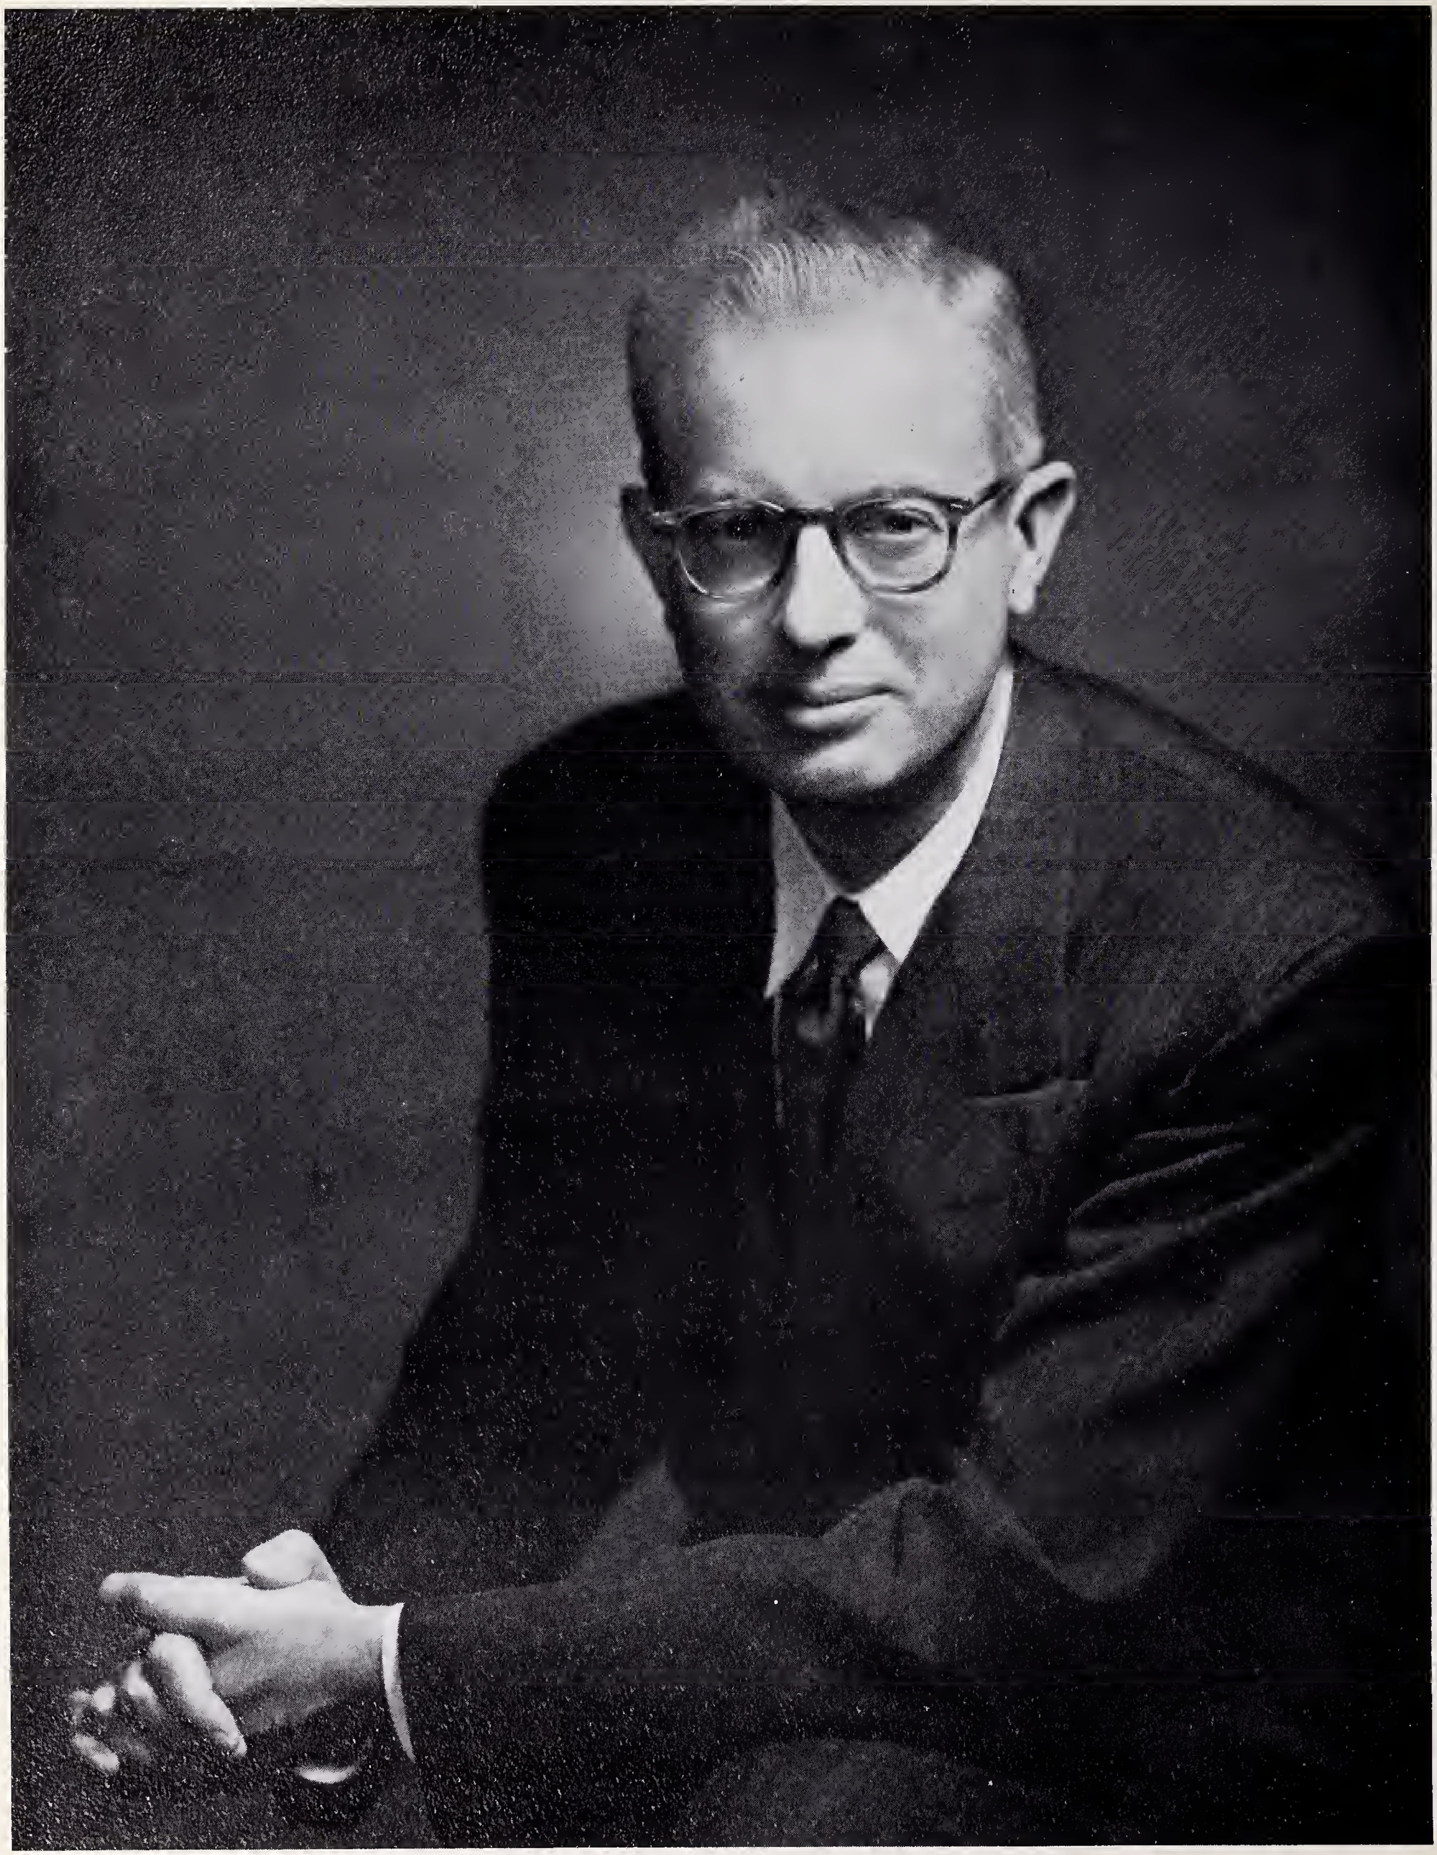
A smile projecting warmth and friendliness . . . graciousness coupled with subtle humor and the twinkling of an eye.

Whether it be with Uncle Remus or Chaucer she leads her contemporaries to the intriguing world of great literature.

We are awed by her wealth of knowledge and insight and affected by her enthusiasm for the humanities.

A wholesome interest in each individual is reflected in her wish to witness the development and fulfillment of our desires.

To all, she is an excellent teacher, a great lady and a lasting friend.



President of the College

"February 10, 1926, National College of Education (then National Kindergarten College) moved from the south side of Chicago to a new location on the north shore in Evanston, at 2840 Sheridan Road. This month, the college marks its thirtieth year in Evanston and its 70th year of service.

"In the fall of 1885, in one room of a Chicago private school, Miss Elizabeth Harrison held her first class for mothers — one of the earliest ventures in the United States educating women for parenthood. The enrollment was two. A year later, in 1886, the class was expanded to include young women who wanted to become kindergarten teachers.

"This was the beginning of National College of Education, the oldest private elementary teachers' college in the United States. There are graduates teaching in every state and territory and in many foreign lands. School superintendents throughout the country testify to the success of National's four-year program of professional preparation.

"The goals to which Miss Elizabeth Harrison aspired and the spirit of her teaching continue to guide the thinking of administrators to the present day. For the genteel young ladies who entered her new classes, Miss Harrison had a two-fold aim—she wanted them to become well informed, cultured women and she wanted them to learn about children, not only in books but by daily contact with children.

In 1885 Miss Harrison was in the vanguard of the movement to train teachers for the new kindergartens which were appearing all over the nation. (The first kindergarten in the Chicago public schools was not opened until 1889.)

"In 1920 Miss Edna Dean Baker, who had been first a scholarship student at the college and then for five years assistant to the president, succeeded Miss Harrison as president of National Kindergarten and Elementary college. Two years later, with $5,000 saved from operating income, a down payment was made on the first piece of the present Evanston property. A bequest of $150,000 from the will of William Swett completed the purchase of the land and financed construction of buildings on this site.

"February 10, 1926, the student body moved into the new classroom building on Sheridan road and a new dormitory at 2532 Asbury avenue. The same year Miss Edna Dean Baker's sister, Clara Belle, opened a new demonstration school for nursery school through second grade, where students could observe and participate in classroom teaching. (Miss Clara Belle Baker had organized a similar school at the south-side location in 1918.)

"In 1930 the name was changed to National College of Education.

"Meanwhile, the demonstration school (today named the Children's school of National College of Education) was adding one grade a year, until in 1932 a full eight-grade private school was operating at the north shore location. Beginning in 1933, a guidance center was developed to help children, both in the Children's school and outside, who were having learning difficulties. Under Dr. Louise Farwell Davis, the center was to become nationally known as a pioneer of new methods for diagnosis of learning problems and for remedial teaching.

"My presidency of National college began in 1949.

"In 1952 one of the new administration's cherished goals, a fifth year of professional study leading to the master of education degree, was inaugurated at the college. A thorough revision of the undergraduate curriculum was accomplished about the same time. With the changes in program, more male students began to enroll.

"Under the leadership of Dean of the College, Robert F. Topp, the graduate school enrollment has increased from 80 students in the first year to 250 now. A new graduate house, on property adjoining the original Evanston campus, was purchased last fall to accommodate this growing department of the college.

"In 1952 Kenneth E. Howe became director of the Children's school, succeeding Clara Belle Baker.

"For the 70 years of its existence, the goal of the National College of Education has always remained constant.

"Marguerite Stitt Church, congresswoman from Illinois and a trustee of National College of Education, has expressed the philosophy of the college in these words:

" 'Children cannot have inner security unless parents and teachers possess a great moral faith which they can transmit. Because our college has never seen any lowering or lessening of value or faith, I can feel that security within National.

" 'In a world tossed up by its roots we must give our children something with which to live and by which to live. We cannot promise them material security and physical safety, but we can and we must provide them an inner security—the kind of security which this college has long fostered in children through the teachers it educates.' "

K. RICHARD JOHNSON, President.

FACULTY

Hands, terminal parts of man, lead the whole man to the portals of learning.

Hands opening those portals to greater understanding of ourselves and each other, showing us the way, hoping our initiative will carry us to our goals... Hands of faculty and students linked in ties of unique mutual respect... Hands proudly applauding our accomplishments, urging us forward.

"For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still."

CLASSES

A hand of welcome upon our arrival starts feelings of companionship and fosters common endeavors that enrich our lives.

Hands, individual yet interdependent, promoting unity within four distinct groups and harmony in one student body . . . Hands whose lines indicate an eagerness to serve, an ability to generate the spirit of fun, and the willingness to uphold the traditions that surround us.

"Brother clasps the hand of brother, Stepping fearless through the night."

Sabine Baring-Gould

The Senior Class

As we terminate our years at National we anxiously and enthusiastically await the future and consider the roles that we shall play, those of citizens, teachers, and homemakers.

We are proud of the unity which has kept us together through the years, proud of the respect and enthusiasm we have for each other and for National.

In retrospect, fond memories of mixers, proms, the daisy chain, coffee hours and our "Winterlude" filled many happy hours.

Aware of our new-found responsibilities, we shall strive for the successful fulfillment of whatever tasks lies before us.

So Well Remembered

To the Senior Class: It is our pleasure to surprise you with some faces of those who have left our class in the last three years. Do you remember them? They served NCE well.

Sophomore Tradition

The most beautiful of all our college traditions is the carrying of the daisy chain at Commencement. The privilege of honoring the seniors in this way is given to the sophomores. They accept it humbly, for it is their way of saying farewell to their sister class.

Juniors

We shall long remember this time of great professional and personal growth, our first year as upperclassmen.

We recall the joys and anxieties of eighteen weeks of student teaching when, at long last, we began to feel like teachers! Intense discussions arising out of our various experiences provided us with a feeling of comradeship.

We are also reminded of the numerous occasions of fun together: our raffle booth at the Santa Cellar Sale, our supper parties in the Rec House, the

Our year came to a close with the Junior-Senior Brunch, and then the excitement and anticipation we felt with the quickening of pulses was a result of the realization that we were about to become seniors.

Sophomores

Our second year at National has been a busy one. In the fall we concentrated our energies upon the success of "Emanon," then our class party at Fanny's drew our attention and finally, in the spring, the making of the traditional daisy chain, honoring the Seniors, rounded out our experience.

DR. ROBERT F. TOPP

Seventy years is a long time, whether judged by human lifetime or the life of an educational institution. National College of Education has lived that long. Furthermore, and unlike human beings who must necessarily wear out and become less efficient with time, an institution may become ever stronger the longer it lives. Our College has done that and, it is to be hoped, will continue to grow in strength and purposefulness.

The curriculum from the freshman year through graduate school has steadily changed to meet the needs of its students. Change has taken place at about the same rate that the demand for change has been expressed, and the College has shown leadership in many areas of endeavor that goes beyond just what is "expected" of it.

Because this section introduces the Graduate School, it should be noted that graduate enrollment has increased rapidly enough to indicate that there was a pressing need of teachers in this area. Summer school attendance is now more than fifty percent graduate; 251 full and part-time graduate students were enrolled first semester of this year. 37 M. Ed. Degrees were awarded during the 12 month period extending from September 1954 to September 1955. This is in great contrast to the first summer school of twenty percent graduates; the first semester of the first year with 85 full and part-time graduates; and the awarding of five M. Ed. Degrees at the close of the first year.

The Graduate School

But numbers, alone, do not represent quality. Already those who have earned their master's degrees at our College are in supervisory, administrative and teacher college positions. On the job, as teachers, they are demonstrating that they have learned much about teaching and, we hope, about living in general.

To the graduate and undergraduate, alike, however, degrees and important positions should not be permitted to diminish the sole, ultimate objective of their study and work . . . . the welfare of the individual child and through that child the welfare of our ever-widening society. This, too, must always be the ultimate purpose of National College of Education, and it shall be.

Robert F. Topp, Dean

Raised hands express the desire to communicate ideas for an organization's undertakings.

Hands offering community help, expressing aesthetic themes and developing skills of projection and relaxation... Hands working in diversified purposeful capacities, the emergence of the well-rounded individual being the ultimate result.

A. C. E.

As one of the organizations dedicated to the professional growth of National students, the Association for Childhood Education strives to promote, to exchange and to evaluate new methods of educating children and to create an interest in important affairs outside the profession.

This year the group sponsored a Mock Interview of a senior and a superintendent and sent representatives to the annual A. C. E. convention, held in Washington, D. C.

The officers of the year were: Laurel Scott, president; Joan Schmidt, vice-president; Carolyn Schnell, secretary; Patty Kelly, treasurer. The sponsor was Miss Ethel Macintyre.

Ambassadors

To stimulate an interest in elementary education among high school students and to inform them of the values of the teaching profession are the main objectives of the Teacher Ambassadors.

To carry out these goals they have worked with the Admissions Office in presenting panel discussions before various school and P. T. A. groups and in giving teas at the college for new and prospective students.

Guided by Barbara Kern, president, and by Mr. Dayton Grafman, sponsor, the Ambassadors are to be commended for their achievements.

Art Workshop

Organized as a non-credit art class under the directorship of Mr. Kuennen, the workshop met after school once a month to devote more time to the manual, creative and fine arts.

Shown above are only a few of the interested members who originally asked for an additional art class. We hope that this group will continue to grow as the years progress.

Chaff

A good newspaper tells the story of people, places and events concisely and accurately.

CHAFF relates the activities of the college in this manner and provides interesting reading for the alumnae and friends of the college as well as for the students.

Athletic Club

In its third year of inception the Athletic Club continued to promote school and group spirit.

The club began its year with a party and treasure hunt held at the college. With the swift changes of seasons the volleyball, basketball, baseball and tennis intramural squads all enjoyed a good work out.

On March 20 the faculty-student basketball game closed another exciting season for the Athletic Club.

Officers for this year were: Judy Jenkins, president; Aline Sumida, secretary; LaVergne Colosky, treasurer. The sponsor was Miss Helen Challand.

Choir

All National points with pride to the choir and to the outstanding contributions it had made toward a fine reputation through the years. The impressive repertoire included Monteverdi's "Angelus Ad Pastores" Vaughn William's "Hodie" in its first presentation in the Midwest, and Mozart's "Requiem." The concert schedule included those at the college festivals, the Evanston Masonic Temple, the First Congregational Church of Evanston, the caroling in the Great Lakes Naval Hospital wards, the Midwest meeting of social chairmen of women's clubs held at the Art Institute, the Baccalaureate service and the Commencement exercises.

Dance Group

Many assemblies and programs were once again enlivened by the beautiful contributions of this organization.

This year it inaugurated a new section for those only interested in exercise and technique, after which a later group worked on performance numbers. After a lapse of one year, Dance Group participated in this year's Children's Play, the Three Bears. Miss Mertz, formerly with the Berlin Ballet Company, gave a master lesson on technique. As in the past, the club enhanced the Thanksgiving and Spring Festivals.

Officers for this year were Louann Freeland, president; Patty Kelly, vice-president; Betty Ristow, secretary; and Eileen Oechsle, treasurer. The sponsor was Mrs. Duffy.

Drama Club

The members of Drama Club can look back on this year with a great deal of pride.

The success of the productions of The Three Bears, in November, and the adult plays in March added another star to the club's galaxy. Many interesting speakers such as Mr. Bernard Hughes, a member of the cast of Teahouse of the August Moon, added greatly to the interest of the monthly meetings. A highlight of the year was the annual banquet.

The officers for the year were Ruth Robinson, president; Judy Gibisch, vice-president Ginny Matson, secretary; Nancy Silk, treasurer; Elizabeth Tomlinson, publicity chairman. The sponsors were Miss Nellie McCaslin, Miss Daty Healy and Mr. Robert Kuennen.

International Club

National is quite fortunate in having many fine representatives of foreign lands as members of its student body. The International Club affords a chance for acquaintance with the cultures and traditions of these nations.

More important was the strengthening of ties of fellowship and brotherhood, especially demonstrated by the continued adoption of a Korean war orphan, Kim.

The officers were Beverly Di Christofano, president; Sue Kingston, treasurer; Dorothy Tengler, secretary; Sui Cheong, social chairman. The club's sponsor was Miss Mary-Louis Neumann.

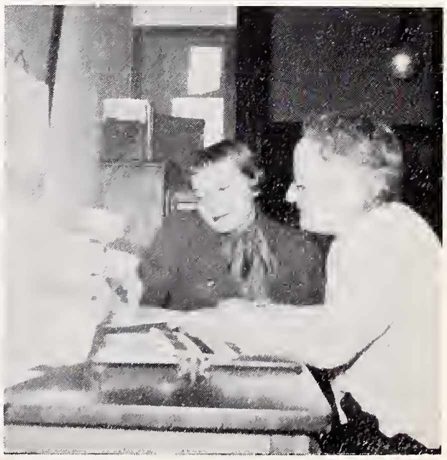
Kappa Delta Pi



Kappa Delta Pi is an honorary education society formed at National last year. Its members are students elected from the Junior and Senior classes on the basis of scholarship, professional attitudes and abilities of leadership.

The purposes of the society are to encourage high professional, personal, and intellectual standards and to recognize outstanding contributions made to the field of education.

Officers for this year were Dorothea Laadt, president; Anna Mae Sica, vice-president; Nancy Sustersic, secretary; Laura Whitney, treasurer; and Linnea Suttie, historian reporter. The sponsor was Miss Janet Rees.

M. E. N. C.

In its second year of existence, the NCE chapter of the Music Educators National Conference continued to pursue its objective (the development of a practical, realistic concept of the music education profession by participating in programs, demonstrations, discussions and performance groups.

Hearing guest speakers at regular meetings and attending lectures and concerts were activities enjoyed. The highlight of the year was the national convention held in St. Louis, Missouri, in April, to which several members were delegates.

The officers were Roxana Griswold, president; Jan Lohbauer, vice-president; Joan Siegler, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Lloyd Cousins was the club's sponsor.

National

Through pictures and copy our staff has endeavored to capture the spirit of National, for the pleasure of the students and faculty, friends and relations.

If, in retrospect, you can look at those representations and see the spirit of our good times recaptured, you will somehow know the pleasure we have had in serving you.

Orchestra

Playing an important part in National's music activities was the chamber orchestra under the direction of Mr. Leonard White. The members of the group played for their own personal pleasure and enjoyment as well as for special programs, such as the Christmas concert, given in conjunction with the college choir.

The members of the orchestra may look back on the year of friendly cooperation, enriched by musical experience.

Third Row: l.-r.: J. Galloway, S. Wallace, B. Gale, N. Anderson, L. Easson, P. Scadding, S. Briska, M. Crawford, J. Bailey, A. Roesser, T. Tomlinson, J. Woodward.

Y. W. C. A.

The purpose of the Y.W.C.A. is to give some religious emphasis to our living, to deepen our appreciations and understandings of other peoples and to provide fun, fellowship and friendship.

Sponsoring another drive for the World University Service, which devotes its efforts toward providing an education for needy students abroad, and hearing a lecture by Miss Agnes Adams, the sponsor, on her experiences in Korea were some of the ways in which the members strove to achieve their goals.

Officers for the year were: Joan Galloway, president; June Woodward, vice-president; Carol Lee Schrader, secretary; Marianne McKenna, treasurer.

EDUCATION

An infant dependently rests his hands in those of his parent's, and begins his learning in the school of life.

Hands asserting individuality as the years progress, clasping those of playmates in a new adventure, flung up in sheer glee at simple discoveries... Hands thrust into a teacher's, saying "I like this. This is fun."

"This living hand, now warm and capable of earnest grasping. . ."

Scholarship Holders: First Semester

Through gifts and funds presented by friends and alumnae of the college, scholarships are awarded twice each year to deserving members of the Junior Class for the coming senior year, and to members of the Senior Class for the semester beginning in January.

Scholarship Holders: Second Semester

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic achievement and student teaching ability.

Friends and fellow students of the recipients of these honors should indeed be proud of these students.

Our Major Interest

The emphasis of the college curriculum is upon a unique student teaching program beginning in the sophomore year. Rather than showing college classroom scenes, we present pictures of the children as we see them in our experiences in the fifty co-operating schools in the Chicagoland area, including the Children's School in the college.

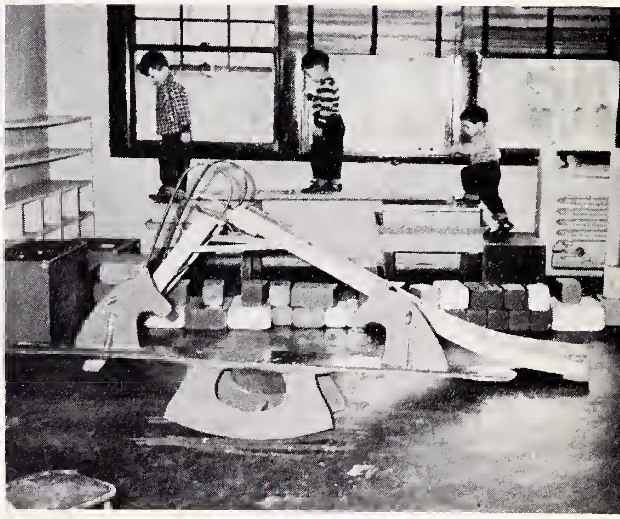
Primary Grades

Embarking into a new world is a wonderful yet frightening experience. Helping our children care for others, listen to others and work with others, forgetting themselves in the joy of another, is the concern of us all.



Intermediate Grades

While children are engaged in varied activities, they continue to develop their newly acquired skills. What a joy it is when teachers observe in their pupils the creation of a drawing, the beginnings of social awareness and the pursuit of an area of interest.

SOCIAL

Hands extended to say "hello" start a wholesome relationship as men and women learn the patterns of acceptability in our society.

Hands trustingly given to a stranger's, . . . promptly accepted from a confidant . . . responsively and sensitively held in affection.

ACTIVITIES

Hands of thinkers and doers, engaged in the preparation of multiple affairs, seek the renewal of energies and the broadening of school ties.

Hands that carry out the plans of many weeks' thoughts, that labor to maintain a balance between our peculiar interests and our natural altruism, and that are pledged to the continued support of our entire population.

"Lend me they hand, I'll help thee.
Come, lend me thy hand."

College

The activities of the council reflect both the serious and the light side of college life. The members, presidents and vice-presidents of classes and the presidents of organizations, fulfilled the council's purpose by providing unity and cooperation between students and faculty, in all school functions. Supervising elections, sponsoring a book sale bulletin board and conducting an improvement drive for the school parking lot were among their serious efforts. On the lighter side, the members gave teas for new students and mid-year entrants, providing welcoming functions for candidates for the scholarship awards, and redecorated the Student Center basement.

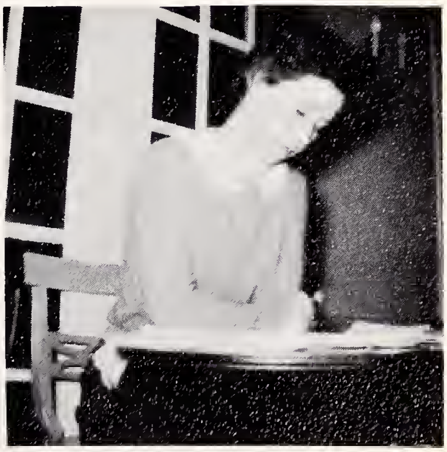
Council



In March of each year, the entire student body elects the president and vice-president from among the members of the Junior Class. This year, it was decided by the council that each nominee should give a short talk concerning his concepts of duties for which he was a candidate. In the fall of the year, the treasurer and secretary of this guiding body are elected by those members. All new officers are installed in a ceremony in September.

The officers of this year were: Mary Ann Willis, president; Dottie Holmes, vice-president; Floria Bellazzini, secretary; and Barbara Kern, treasurer.

D. G. A. Officers

We will often recall those days of dorm life when we shared the happy times and the poignant ones.

The sharing of the responsibility of living according to a new honor system, the pajama parties, the fire drills at "unearthly hours", the guest dinners, the engagement ceremonies, and the times when we helped each other prepare for those big dates, are all a part of lasting memories.

Hoot Nanny night, in the fall, initiated the year's events. Before we realized it, Thanksgiving dinner was with us. Then, with the hanging of the "holly green" and the "ivy green", we were absorbed in the Christmas spirit. With the coming of spring, another parting of the ways was before us. Whether it would be for a few months or for many years, we shall never forget that "the friendships we gained will forever remain a symbol of our happiness."

T. A. Officers

This year, as in the past, the association succeeded in creating a close bond among the commuting students of Chicagoland. It also contributed greatly to National's spirit through its enthusiastic participation in all of the college activities.

Its Christmas banquet and Dad-Daughter dinner provided an excellent get-together for its members and their parents. With the Mother-Daughter luncheon, annually held in the spring, another successful year reached its climax.

The May Queen and Court

Drawing the activities of the year to a dramatic close was the annual Spring Festival, in which over 250 students participated. It was the time for putting to use the talents of known artists, dancers, and writers and for discovering new abilities. The show was written by a student committee and directed by Miss McCaslin, Miss Healy, Mrs. Duffy, Mr. Cousins, and Mr. White.

There were many activities preceding the performance, which provided an atmosphere of excitement and anticipation: Parents Day, sponsored by the Freshman Class; the flower cart managed by the Senior Class; popcorn sold by the sophomores; and punch provided by the juniors.

"Step Right Up", this year's production, carried the theme of a traveling carnival. The traditional climax was the crowning of the May Queen, whose court was composed of eight girls selected by the Senior Class. The queen was elected by the whole school, and her crown was a gift of the Junior Class. When the whole cast and crew sang the finale, "It's a Big Wide Wonderful World", there were feelings of great happiness, nostalgia, and fulfillment.
